EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Mr. Thomas P. Schiller on October 14, 2003.

The application has been amended as follows:

A) Cancel claims 1 and 8.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art discloses an overloading inverter having an ac generator, an internal combustion engine, a rectifier and loads. However, the prior art fails to show, in combination with the invention, having a method of determining a first overload judgment value for a load current flowing through an inverter and a second overload judgment value larger than the first value, determining a short circuit judgment value for an output voltage of the inverter, determining a first setting and second setting time having a length set in accordance with the output voltage of the inverter, starting a measurement of an overload continuation time when it is detected that the load current exceeding the first overload judgment value flows through the inverter and judging whether the value of the current exceeds a second overload judgment value and whether the output voltage of the inverter is equal to or less than the short circuit judgment value whereby the operation of the inverter is stopped immediately when the load current exceeds the second overload judgment value, the operation of the inverter is stopped when the overload continuation time exceeds the first setting time in case that the load current is equal to or more than the first overload judgment value and is equal to or less than the second overload judgment value and the operation of the inverter is stopped when the overload current exceeds the second overload judgment value and the output voltage of the inverter exceeds the short circuit judgment value wherein the second setting time is set so as to get shorter as the output voltage of the inverter is lower.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
